Simon Jackson KC is regularly instructed in serious criminal (principally homicide), regulatory (including corporate manslaughter), professional discipline (police and medical) cases and inquests (acting as 'counsel to the inquiry' on behalf of HM Coroner on two occasions).

Expertise

Crime

Both as a junior and throughout his time in 'silk' Simon Jackson has been instructed in serious criminal cases. These are now principally homicide, fraud and regulatory cases. For example, he has specialist experience in relation to deaths involving children, and for example was recently involved in defending a woman charged with killing her infant daughter. Case involved complex issues of causation relating to multiple and complex injuries, including a skull fracture and the presence of the so called 'triad' of injuries, namely hypoxic-ischaemic encephalopathy, bilateral thin film acute subdural haemorrhages and extensive multi-layered retinal haemorrhages. Case involved complex medical evidence from a large number of tertiary referral experts on both sides of the case.

He has extensive experience of dealing with serious criminal cases that involve complex disclosure issues involving, 'joint enterprise', PII and 'abuse of process' arguments based on delay and alleged unfairness to defendants.

As an experienced leader he has considerable experience dealing with cases involving complex medical, pathological, scientific and technical evidence.

He is also familiar and comfortable with working in teams, from the early stages of a case, and providing leadership where required.

Notable Crime cases

Police Discipline

As a Junior and in silk, Simon Jackson has regularly undertaken police disciplinary cases defending officers [across four police forces] charged with a variety of offences, including dishonesty, sexual harassment, misfeasance in a public office and 'test purchasing' sexual services as part of a police undercover vice operation.

He has also regularly represented police officers, often custody officers [sergeants or inspectors] in connection with 'death in custody' Inquests. He has represented a police firearms team in West Yorkshire in relation to the death of a western 'quick draw' fan who confronted the police with a firearm in Huddersfield. He was also involved in the inquest concerning Christopher Alder who died in custody in Hull and the related judicial review proceedings.

Simon Jackson has experience of dealing with cases that have been the subject of complex Professional Standards and IPCC investigations.

Notable Police Discipline cases

Healthcare

Simon is a full member of the GMC's Approved Panel of Counsel presenting Fitness to Practise cases involving serious misconduct, deficient professional performance allegations before Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service Tribunals Fitness to Practice Panels and Review Hearings.

Notable Healthcare cases
